HE SENDS A BULL MOOSE TELEGRAM

O. K. Davis, who has been made secretary of the Progressive convention in Chicago, is from Wahoo, Nebraska, the old home of Prof. J. A. Smith of Ogden. When Prof. Smith was superintendent of schools at Wahoo and his brother, C. E. Smith, was principal of the high school, O. K. Davis was a school boy, the son of the editor of the local newspaper. On Prof. Smith's advice, young Davis went east to become a newspaper reporter. He made a success of his calling from his first assignment on the New York Sun. Since then he has grown to the importance of a great magazine writer and a leader of men. So when Prof. Smith saw in last evening's Standard that his protégé of long ago had gained new fame he sent the following telegram:

"O. K. Davis, Secretary Bull Moose Convention.
"Congratulations: I knew you'd get there. I've watched you twenty-five years. Hurrah for the Bull Moose! My regards to Teddy."
(Signed) J. A. SMITH.

GREAT FALLS OF THE YELLOWSTONE.

RAPIDS ABOVE UPPER FALLS, YELLOWSTONE PARK.

The Standard will publish a short letter almost every day for two weeks from a San Francisco high school girl, Miss Thoda Stancliffe Cockroft, describing a trip through the Yellowstone park together with photographic illustrations.

As the Standard is giving away four trips to the Yellowstone park, consisting of a railroad ticket to Yellowstone station and coach transportation through the park, together with meals and hotel accommodations, all free, these letters from Miss Cockroft will be very interesting.

There is a strange fascination in watching a great force of water leap over a wall of rock. It bounds and roars and thunders on so wild and free. Streaks of green and blue blended with the bubbling foam.

What magic charm, what awful fascination.

Holds me spell bound, as I gaze into the foaming abyss of the roaring waters?

They dash they bound, they leap. And never cease. I gaze again. The water still is there and tumbling over.

That rocky wall; wilder and more furious than before.

And so they pour incessantly. You wonder if the river will ever be exhausted, the force seems so terrific but it rolls on and never ceases. Dizzy you turn away, all senses stunned; then eagerly you watch again, the bounding waters arouse some strange and wild desire, some crazy impulse. Fearful, lest you lose physical control you turn away, afraid to gaze again.

GATTY SELLARS, FAMOUS ORGANIST

The visit of England's great organist, Gatty Sellars to Ogden tonight, at the First Methodist church, is arousing widespread interest.

Gatty Sellars the great English organist-composer, was born in 1877 and received his training at Peterborough Cathedral, and from a well-known professor of the Royal Academy of Music, London. It was through being heard in Switzerland, however, that he obtained his first engagement at the Queen's hall, London, concerts, appearing with Agnes Nichols, Kirkby Lunn and Sir Charles Santley.

After appearances in Europe with Albal, Busoni, Marchesi and in the same series of concerts as Padewski, Kubelik and Dr. Hans Richter. Well known as a composer, one of his compositions was selected as a test piece at the National Band contest at the Crystal palace for performance by the massed bands of 3,000 performers.

Mr. Sellars is a son of the Rev. S. Sellars, his mother being formerly a Miss Gatty, a name well known in musical circles through the reputation of Sir Alfred Scott Gatty, principal of arms. His program is the most unique in the annals of musical history of America.

"When the pioneers came over the mountains on July 24, 1847, and the leader looked down into the valley and said, 'This is the place,' it was but dimly guessed by the eager company at his back that then was a new empire founded with great privileges, and great problems all its own.

We of the second and third generations know of the valiant work of those early days, when the soil was tilled, not knowing its power, and the water led from place to place to see if somehow the great desert-like land could not be made to yield. And that act alone made the mountains habitable. Great sacrifices were made in those days, greater it is sometimes thought than we of the later day would be willing to make. It is for the young men and women to reverse this work of the past, not by empty platitudes, but by building with sincerity upon the solid foundation which has been placed.

"Our work is not the pioneer kind. The rough corners have been broken from the crude marble by harder hands than ours and we may see even now a vague semblance of the noble form which they conceived. It is our work to release from the unfinished stone in lines of beauty the great figure of state which shall speak to the world."

HIS BROTHER AND SON ARE DROWNED

J. C. Kemp of Niles, Ohio, arrived in Ogden this morning on a sad mission. He recently received a telegram from Ogden and also from Atton, Wyo. advising him of the drowning of his brother, W. A. Kemp, and also his son, George Arthur Kemp, in the Snake river, at a point near Alpine postoffice.

The men were drowned in July, the message says, and the bodies were in the river ten days before they were recovered. Mr. Kemp desires to take the bodies home and today he is endeavoring to learn just where Alpine is and how he can reach the place. Sheriff Harrison and others are aiding Mr. Kemp in his efforts to learn where the bodies of his brother and son are.

CANNERS ARE TO HAVE OUTING

The Utah Cannery association will have an outing at Salt Lake tomorrow, the Ogden contingent to leave on the 2 o'clock Bamberger and returning on the same line, leaving Salt Lake at 9 o'clock in the evening. Dinner will be partaken of at 6 o'clock at Salt Lake. It is desired that a large number avail themselves of the rates and an opportunity to boost for Ogden.

It is expected that Mrs. Caroline Seymour, the New York preserve expert, will address some of the canners at the outing in an attempt to further her fruit packing scheme in this state.

Although Mrs. Seymour was unable to leave either Ogden or Twin Falls to finance her project to build a big plant somewhere in Utah and incorporate a company for $75,000, she asserts that sufficient individual support has been promised to catch the moneyed men of Twin Falls, Ogden and Salt Lake to carry out her plan.

SUIT IS OVER A CELERY DEAL

The case of Henry Leong against the H. L. Griffin company was called in Judge Harris division of the district court this morning for trial, but the parties to the action not being ready for the hearing it was continued until August 14.

In this suit the plaintiff seeks to recover $120.50 alleged to be due for celery claimed to have been sold to the defendant company November 7, 1911.

CLEARING A TITLE TO PART OF ESTATE

Judge Harris of the district court has issued a decree reforming a deed in the case of the Joseph Parry investment company against Walter Parry, administrator of the estate of Joseph Parry, deceased.

It was shown in the pleadings that a certain deed issued in connection with the estate of Joseph Parry was erroneous in description and it became necessary for the court to decree its reformation before it could be corrected to clear the title to the property.

DROWNING IS FOLLOWED BY MYSTERY

Considerable mystery surrounds the sudden disappearance of Joseph Melogram, the young man who had so narrow an escape from drowning at Lagoon Sunday afternoon, July 28, when his sweetheart, Miss Emma oYungquist, went to her death from an overturned boat.

Melogram has suffered much grief since the accident and it is believed that his mind has given away under the strain and that he has wandered off, perhaps to his death.

The last seen of Melogram was on Thursday. He worked at his job in the tailoring department of the Manhattan clothes shop during the forenoon and at 11:30 asked Proprietor D. L. Turk if he might go to lunch a little earlier, as he was unusually hungry. He left his tailoring tools, a suitcase partially filled with clothing and two days' wages due him. Mr. Turk has not seen the man since.

At the Boyle rooming house, on Washington avenue, where Miss Youngquist lived previous to her death, Melogram is said to have called Friday afternoon and asked permission to peek up the dead girl's effects. The permission was granted and he passed some time in carefully gathering the clothing and trinkets of his sweetheart and packing the same into her trunk.

He seemed heart-broken and those who observed him feared that he was on the point of losing his mind. He stated that he would return Sunday for the girl's things and left.

At Melogram's rooming place on Twenty-fourth street the landlady is fearful that he has wandered away to his death, possibly by suicide. He has not been seen in his room since Thursday and his belongings remain untouched as he left them.

A tailor employed at Kuhn's store stated today that someone had seen Melogram near the railroad tracks on Seventeenth street Friday morning and that he was dressed in old clothing. This person believed that Melogram was endeavoring to catch a ride out of town on a freight train, his actions indicating it to some extent.

Mr. Turk is confident that Melogram's mind has given away, as he acted queerly Wednesday, the day before he disappeared. He went to lunch and did not return until the next morning, explaining that he had laid down on his bed and had fallen asleep. Thursday morning it was impossible to converse with him, his mind apparently wandering away from questions put to him. The police will be asked to search for the missing man.

PROSPEROUS REXBURG, IDAHO

Eli McIntire of Rexburg is in the city visiting friends and of late acquaintance. He was a former resident of Ogden and has a warm place in his heart for the city and its people. He is a prominent business man of Rexburg and is among the stalwart Democrats of that section of the country.

Mr. McIntire states that Rexburg is among the more prosperous cities of south-central Idaho and rapid progress in commercial lines is being made there. Crops are good this year and the harvest will be bounteous. The only drawback to the country is the fact that nothing but apples and berries in the fruit time can be raised. Peaches, apricots and plums are unknown. They are shipped in from Ogden.

A case involving the right of unions to execute their law was taken to the courts in Tacoma, Wash., recently. A member of the local union of American Federation of Musicians began legal proceedings to compel his reinstatement in the local union without a corresponding compliance with laws in force in the local union. The court, however, which the case was brought, dismissed the petition, thus sustaining the local union in its position of insisting on the enforcement of its laws.

roadbed has been removed, east of Adams avenue.
It is said by the trackmen that the two new divisions are better than any other roadbed of the city system in that the heavier rail has been placed on them and new ties used over the entire distance. It will be necessary to do some grading after the service begins tomorrow, but it will not interfere with the traffic.

DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE CLUB

Democrats of the city are becoming somewhat active in the preliminary work of the campaign and they are determined to be thoroughly organized for the fight when it comes on. Those at the head of the party organization state that the campaign will be a short one, but that it will be vigorous and every effort will be put forth to succeed.

It is understood that Weber county and Ogden will stand firmly for representation of importance on the state ticket. It is possible that some of the young men of the party in the county will be in the race for congress.

Tomorrow evening, at 8 o'clock, in Judge Howell's court room, a mass meeting of Democrats will be held for the purpose of organizing a "Wilson and Marshall" club.

David Cook is chairman of the committee on organization and constitution and he has prepared a constitution for the club which he will present for consideration at the meeting tomorrow evening, as follows:

Preamble.
"Sollicitous for the welfare and the advancement of citizenship and of country, we associate ourselves together to promote the election to the national presidency and vice presidency, respectively, the country's great patrons of advancement and progress, Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana; and to the accomplishment of this end, and to the attainment of this great purpose, we organize and establish this constitution."

Constitution.
"The name of this association shall be the Wilson-Marshall Club of Ogden City; its motto shall be, 'Progress.' Its membership shall be 'Patrons of Progress.'"

"The offices of this association and its principal place of operation shall be in the City of Ogden, in the County of Weber, State of Utah; its object the accomplishment of the purposes set forth in the preamble."

"An adherence to progressive principles, and a willingness to assist in their attainment through the election of Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall, shall be the qualifications, and the only qualifications, for membership."

Section 1. The officers of this club shall consist of a president, a vice president, a secretary and a treasurer. An executive committee of nine members, of which the president of the club shall be chairman, and of which the vice president, the secretary and the treasurer shall be members.
